ND Child Support Enforcement Program honored for excellence

BISMARCK, N.D. – The Western Interstate Child Support Enforcement Council (WICSEC) notified the North Dakota Department of Human Services that the council is presenting the state's child support enforcement program with the 2006 WICSEC Excellence Award for Outstanding Program at the State Level.

In a letter to Child Support Enforcement Division Director Mike Schwindt, council president Katherine Sokolik stated, "The criteria for the Outstanding Program Award are satisfied only when a program consistently and comprehensively exemplifies the best in child support enforcement – in all facets of customer service and performance."

North Dakota currently ranks second in the nation among states and territories on federal child support enforcement performance measures. States are compared on five factors including paternity establishment, support orders established, and child support actually paid in the month it is due.

Schwindt will be accepting the award on behalf of North Dakota at WICSEC's Annual Training Conference on November 13 in Seattle.

WICSEC Vice President David Stillman, who is also Washington state's Child Support Enforcement Program Director, praised Schwindt and North Dakota child support enforcement workers for doing outstanding work and said the award is well deserved.

WICSEC is an organization of public and private child support professionals from the states west of the Mississippi. The organization is committed to improving child support enforcement for the benefit of the children and parents served.
